disease, whether it be in the bones, muscles, joints, liver, heart, paucress, kidneys, stomach or bowels, brain, or spinal marrow.

IT ACTS UPON THE SKIN, producing a free and copious discharge of all foul humors secreted in this organ.

FESTERING SORES.

The most repulsive sores and eruptions are instantly relieved from irritation and quickly removed from the skin.

HOW RADWAY'S RENOVATING RESOLVENT CURES CONSUMPTION.

To cure Consumption we must stop decay and rebuild and heat the worn-out organs of the system that disease has consumed.

We must treat every organ in the system, for the Lungs are not the only organs affected. It affects the Liver, the Heart, the Kidneys, Bladder, and Pancreas; and, in fact, every organ in the body is more or less tainted with decomposition and decay.

position and decay.

THE LUNGS
ARE THE BREATHING APPARATUS OF THE SYSTEM When the Lungs are in a state of decay they are unable to receive or emit the necessary amount of air requisite to austin His. The greater the atmospheric pressure upon the air-cells, the more painful, irritable, and sufficiating is the weight upon the lungs.

THE GLANDS

come swollen from the irritation and inflammati-lungs.

ULCERS AND LUMPS IN THE THROAT

are formed from unhealthy deposits, which the lungs are unable to eject without the aid of powerful emetics, and the Liver too weak and feeble to secrete.

becomes deposited in the bronchial tubes; it hardens, and is formed into lumps, which ulcerate, suppurate, and discharge

THE AIR-CELLS

are clogged, and the respiratory organs checked, so that breathing is rendered oppressive and exceedingly difficult.

RADWAY'S RENOVATING RESOLVENT

WILL ACT AS FOLLOWS:

RADWAY'S RENOVATING RESOLVENT
WILL ACT AS FOLLOWS:
THE LUNGS.

It will heal, strengthen, and remove from them all diseased deposit, cleaning the sir-cells from all diseased humors.
REMOVES FROM THE GLANDS inflammation, and rids the Throat from Ulcers, Tumors, Hard Swellings, and other diseased deposits.
TO THE LIVER,

It will impart tone died energy.
AND EVERY ORGAN IN THE SYSTEM
it will reorganize and cleanse from putrid and unhealthy matter and humors.
IN TEN MINUTES
after taking this pleasant remedy the patient feels easier. It immediately allays the irritable cough, loosens the tightness across the chest, and relieves the sharp wrenching pains.

DR. JOHNSTON,
Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Grad ate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the Unit States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewher has effected some of the most astonishing cures that we ever known. Many troubled with ringing in the ears an head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at at den sounds, and bushfulness, with frequent blushing, after ed sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured imm distely.

MAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves private and improper indulgences, that secret and solid habit, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them either business or society.

habit, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business or society.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produces by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Musco har Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsis, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c., &c.

Mentally.—The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Aversion of Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.

NERVOUS DEPARTMENT.

Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the system, Nervous Debility and premature decay generally arise from the destructive habit of youth, that solitary practice so fatal to the healthful existence of man, and it is the young who are most apt to become its Victims, from an ignorance of the dangers to which they subject themselves. Parents and Guardians are often misled with respect to the cause or source of disease in their sons and wards. Alas! how often do they ascribe to other causes the wasting of the frame, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, derangement of the Nervous System, Cough, and Symptoms of Consumption; also those serious Mental effects, such as loss of Memory, Depression of Spirits, or peculiar fits of Melancholy, when the truth is, they have been caused by indulging in Pernicious but alluring practices, destructive to both Body and Mind. Thus are swept from existence thousands who might have been of use to their Country, a pleasure to their friends, and ornaments to Society.

from existence thousands who night have been of use to their Country, a pleasure to their friends, and ornaments to Society.

DR. JOHNSTON'S INVIGORATING REMEDY FOR ORGANIC WEAKKESS.

This grand and important Remedy has restored strength and vigor to thousands of the most debilitated individuals, many who had lost all hopes, and been abandoned to die. By its complete invigoration of the Nervous System, the whole faculties become restored to their proper power and functions, and the fallen fabric of life is raised up to beauty, consistency and duration, upon the ruins of an emaciated and premature decline, to sound and pristine health. Oh, how happy have hundreds of misguided youths been made, who have been suddenly restored to health from the devastations of those terrific maladies which result from indiscretion! Such persons, before contemplating MARRIAGE, should reflect that a sound mind and bedy are the most necessary requisites to promote commubial happiness. Indeed, without this, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage: the prospect hearly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own. Let no false delicacy prevent you, but apply immediately.

To STRANGERS.

The many thousands cured at this institution within the last ten years, and the numerous important Surgical Operations performed by Dr. J., witnessed by the Reporters of the papers and many other persons, notices of which have appeared again and agrain before the public, is a sufficient guaranty that the sfillicted will find a skilful and honorable physician.

TAKE NOTICE.

It is with the greatest reluctance that Dr. Johnston per-physician.

TAKE NOTICE.

It is with the greatest reluctance that Dr. Johnston permits his card to appear before the public, deeming it unprefessional for a physician to advertise; but unless he did so, the afflicted, especially strangers, could not fail to fall into his hands of those imprudent, boasting impostors—individuals destitute of knowledge, name, and character—pediars, shoemakers, mechanics, &c., advertising themselves as physicians; ignorant quacks, who keep you trifling month after month, as long as possible, and in despair leave you with a ruined health to sigh over your galling disappointment. It is this motive alone that induces Dr. J. to advertise, for healme can cure you. To those unacquainted with his reputation he deems it necessary to say, that his credentials or diplomas always hang in his Office.

Weakness of the Organs immediately cured, and full vigor restored. TAKE NOTICE.

PROSPECTUS OF THE COTTON PLANT,

A SOUTHERN JOURNAL, PUBLISHED WEEKLY, TO ADVOCATE DIRECT TRADE, MANUFACTURES, AGRICULTURE, AND THE DEVEL-OPMENT OF SOUTHERN RESOURCES, BY C. G. BAYLOR,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE importance of such a journal as the above needs no exposition. The material and substantial interests of the South have been too long neglected. The "Corron Plant" is established to promote these interests, keeping entirely aloof from party or party politics. A complete foreign and domestic correspondence has been arranged. The best talent of the country will contribute to our columns, which will present a medium of general communication, correspondence, and information for the friends of the measures we advocate. The proper stops have been taken in Europe and America to lay the foundation of a direct forcing trade at the South, and to introduce our coarse manufactures into the continental European market. One object of the "Corron Plant" will be, as the organ of direct trade, to stimulate the South to carry out this important measure.

We call upon the Southern merchants generally to send us their business cards, that we may lay them before the country, to enable the friends of Southern commerce, manufactures, &c., to discriminate properly in their desire to promote Southern enterprise.

The importance of Washington City, as a point of location for such a journal, especially in regard to opening foreign correspondence and promoting our foreign relations, is apparent. The opportunity of seeing here, also, members of Congress from every district of the country, presents means of general co-operation not to be found elsewhere.

To the Cotton, Sugar, Rice, and Tobacco Planters, we look confidently for support; and to the friends of "Direct Trade" throughout the South we say, "show your faith by your works."

The regular issue of the "Cotton Plant" will commence

THE TWO DEATH-BEDS.

Eighteenth Century," a book which is bristling all over with point, and full of life and character. Gretry was a Franch root of the term o ter. Gretry was a French poet of the age of Louis XV.

THE MAIDEN'S DEATH.

Gretry's daughters all died at the age of sixteen. There is something strange in their life and in their death, which strikes the dreamer and the poet. This sport of destiny, this freak of death, this vengeance of nature, appears here invested with all the charms of romance. You will see.

Jenny had the pale, sweet countenance of a virgin. On seeing her, Greuze said one day, "If I ever paint Purity, I shall paint Jenny." "Make haste!" murmured Gretry, already a prey to sad presentiment. "Then she is going to be married?" said Greuze. Gretry did not answer. Soon, however, seek-ing to blind himself, he continued: "She will be the staff of my old age; like Antigone, she will lead her father into the sun at the decline of life." The next day Gretry came unexpectedly upon Jenny, looking more pale and depressed than ever. She was playing on the harpsichord, sweetly and slowly. As she was playing an air from Richard Cour-de-Lion in a melancholy strain, the poor father funcied that he was listening to the music of angels. One of her friends entered—"Well, Jenny, you are going to-night to the ball?" "Yes, yes, to the ball," answered poor Jenny, looking towards heaven, and sud-denly resuming—"No; I shall not go—my dance is ended." Gretry pressed his daughter to his heart. "Jenny, you are suffering!"

is over," said she. She bent her head and died instantly, without a struggle? Poor Gretry asked i asleep. She slept with the angels.

Lucile was a contrast to Jenny she was a beautiful girl, gay, enthusiastic, and frolicksome. with all the caprices of such a disposition. She was almost a portrait of her father, and possessed, besides, the same heart and the same mind.
"Who knows," said poor Gretry, "but that her gaiety may save her?" She was unfortunately one of those precocious geniuses who de your their youth. At thirteen she had com posed an opera which was played everywhere Le Mariage de Antonia. A journalist, a friend of Gretry, who one day found himself in Lucile's apartment without her being aware of it, so much was she engrossed with her harp, has related the rage and madness which transported her during her contests with inspiration that was often rebellious. "She wept, she sang, she struck her harp with incredible energy. either did not see me, or took no notice of me: for my own part, I wept with joy in beholding this little girl transported with so glorious zeal and so noble an enthusiasm for music.

Lucile had learned to read music before she knew her alphabet. She had been so long lulled to sleep with Gretry's airs, that at the age when so many other young girls think only of hoops and dells, she had found sufficient music in her soul for the whole of a charming opera. She was a prodigy. Had it not been for death, who came to seize her at sixteen, like her sister, the greatest musician of the eighteenth century would, perhaps, have been a woman. But the twig, scarcely green, snap-ped at the moment when the poor bird com-menced her song. Gretry had Lucile married. at the solicitation of his friends. "Marry her. marry her," they incessantly repeated. Love has the start of Death, Lucile is safe. Snooks says that there is a marked difference Lucile suffered herself to be married to one of between birds and women. As an illustration of those artists of the worst order, who have neither the religion of art nor the fire of genius, this, he cites the fact that a bit of looking-glass and who have still less heart-for the heart is the home of genius. The poor Lucile saw at a glance the desert to which her family had exiled her. She consoled herself with a harp and a harpsichord: but her husband, who had been brought up like a slave, cruelly took delight. with a coward's vengeance, in making her feel all the chains of Hymen. She would have died professorates or scholarships; and to save them like Jenny, on her father's bosom, amidst her from beggary, a beggarly pittance is graciously loving family, after having sung her farewell song; but, thanks to this barbarous fellow, she died in his presence, that is to say, alone. At the hour of her death, "Bring me my harp!" said she, raising herself a little. "The doctor has forbidden it," said this savage. She cast a bitter yet a suppliant look upon him. "But as I am dying!" said she. "You will die very well without that" She fell back on her pillow. "But that they shall be sent out of the United States within twelve months, and requiring the payment of $150, to be deposited in the treasury for My poor father. ' murmured she, ' I wish to bid you adieu on my harp; but here I am not free, except to die! Lucile (it is the nurse who related the scene) suddenly extended her arms, called Jenny with a broken voice, and fell asleep like her forever.

THE WORLDLING'S DEATH French.

"As soon as I heard that he was dying, I forgot the fickle poet; I only remembered the poet who had loved me. I flew to him. He was the same petit-maitre, without care; the was the same petit-mattre, without care; the same bantering, smiling creature. He sprang to my arms. 'I have been expecting you a long time,' said he, with a cheerful air and a somewhat foolish expression. He wished still to struggle with love; he was gallant, but with his lips only; he was a worn-out player, wishing to the same petit-mattre, without the same bank of the same petit-mattre, without care; the ing to play his part of the lucky poet to the last. Alas! when I went to see him again, he was no longer struggling with love. 'Marchioness,' said he, stretching out to me his parched feverish hand. ed, feverish hand, you see me struggling with death I yesterday had a visit from the cure, who said as he went away he would return. It is not worth while, I told him, for I shall soon be gone.

"It was with pain that I looked upon the poor poet. He was reclining upon his couch, in his morning gown and slippers. 'Ah, there you are,' said he, in rising with difficulty, 'I expect some visiters—Madame Beauharnais, Madame d'Angeville, and Madame Death. If I am not mistaken, I have two hours longer to live; I have hardly time to dress.' He called his valet, he begged me to wait, and he then was assisted to his dressing room.

"When he returned, his little salon was full of visiters; he bowed to them as he leaned upon his valet, and then took his seat. Every one observed the elegance of his last toilet; he was never more carefully wigged, powdered, nor more finely dressed. 'What is the cause of this unusual display?' asked the Marquis de Saint-Marc, hiding his grief; 'there is some mysterious intrigue behind all this.' 'You do not know, then,' said Dorat, assuming a cheerful air, that I have some acquaintance with Madame Death? I do not say it to slander her, but she requires less urging than some others. Her messenger, that is to say, the doctor, told me that she would come for me this afternoon; you strain a deep sigh. Every lady present turned away to conceal her tears; the young Freron wept by himself in a corner. But the deep grief of Mademoiselle Fannier, the comic actress, who had just arrived, was more bitter than mine. She threw herself, pale and overwhelmed with grief, into the arms of Dorat. 'You have done my heart good,' he said, with a smile, 'but you have disturbed my wig.' These were, I believe, his last words; he died in an interest of the said, with a smile, 'but you have disturbed my wig.' These were, I believe, his last words; he died in an interest of the said.

A Dangerous Voyage. Our readers are aware that the last outward oyage of the Bremen steamer Washington was unusually long; that the ship first put into Milford Haven, instead of Cowes, her regular English port; and that Captain Floyd was declared to be insane, and removed to a lunatic asylum near Southam; ton. We find in the Deutsche Reichs-Zeitung some extracts from a journal of the voyage kept by one of the passengers, which shows that the malady of the commander repeatedly came near de-stroying the vessel and losing the lives of many if not all on board. The great danger into which they were thrown, and its singular and unhappy cause, lend a thrilling interest to this narrative.
